

2017 EYCF Board of Directors

Leadership & Teamwork

Tim Wilbricht (Chairman) is an EYC member and is the former President and Owner of Annapolis Yacht Sales. He enjoys sailing, swimming, diving and all things related to watersports with his wife Mischelle and two sons, Noah -17 and Luke-14. As Vice Chair EYC Foundation board, he currently chairs the Career Fair Committee and Outstanding Marine Wizards Committee and serves on the Nomination, Finance and Fund Raising committees. He also serves on the board of the National Downs Syndrome Society and the Anne Arundel County Maritime Advisory Board.

Tara Potter (Vice Chairman) is a native Marylander and spent leisure time on the bay and its rivers as a child, and sailed competitively as an adult. Retired from Verizon and working part-time for the Maryland Senate, she owns her own consulting firm. Tara currently serves on the EYC Race Committee and Bylaws Committee, and also volunteers in the community with a focus on K-12 education and the Chesapeake Bay watershed.

Stephanie Reisinger (Treasurer) is an EYC member and long-time resident of Annapolis who enjoys the area's rich maritime history, sailing, and pretty much anything water related with her husband Mark and son Harrison. A certified public accountant and internal auditor, she presently works for the International Monetary Fund. In addition to her work with the Foundation, she also co-chairs ComicKey/Family Activities annually for the Annapolis Book Festival.

Virginia Tippie, (Secretary) is a coastal oceanographer. She has served in senior federal positions including: Director, EPA Chesapeake Bay Program; Director, NOAA National Ocean Service; and Director, Coastal America Partnership. A member of Eastport Yacht Club for 35 years, she is committed to the Foundation's mission. She currently chairs the EYC Environmental Committee and is the Foundation's Secretary. An avid boater and bay explorer, she is especially passionate about the Foundation's educational programs and stewardship efforts.

Pam Ray (Past Chairman) is the Past Chairman of the BOD, having joined EYCF in 2011. Pam has served as Chair of the Marine & Maritime career fairs and had "the absolute pleasure of serving with a talented and engaged Board of Directors" to meet a mission that combines her entrepreneurial passion and lifelong love of the water. In 2018, she continues to lead, collaborate and build partnerships through the launch of her new business, "Building STEM Bridges" and "STEM4Parents".

Jane Campbell-Chambliss is a lifelong resident of Annapolis, for 40 years has been a fine and decorative appraiser and auctioneer. She holds a Master degree, Morgan State University, a certificate in Connoisseurship in Fine and Decorative Arts, George Washington University, a business degree from Strayer College, in D.C. Jane serves on the Salvation Army and Historic Annapolis boards of directors. She loves sailing with her husband Pete on their catamaran “Dreamweaver.

Tammy Diedrich is the manager of Internship and Business Programs for Anne Arundel County Public Schools. Throughout her 32 year career she has been involved with career and technical education. As the current chair of the Career Expo Committee she is able to combine her passion for CTE with helping to promote careers in the marine and maritime industries. Tammy and her husband Chuck enjoy life on the water in Mayo.

Mary Ewenson is publisher of SpinSheet, PropTalk and FishTalk Magazines and PortBook Marine Services Guide. She grew up boating on the Severn River and is thoroughly committed to the marine industry. She was excited to join the Board of the EYC Foundation, because it fits perfectly with her mission to get more people out having more fun in boats on the Chesapeake Bay, and helping to promote careers and awareness of the maritime industry does just that.

David Fawley is the instructor of Marine Service Technology at the Center of Applied Technology- South, a career and technology center that takes high school students from the southern half of Anne Arundel County. Before taking that teaching position, David worked for years as a boatbuilder for Chesapeake Light Craft, Cutts and Case, Inc., Stone Boat Yard, and the WoodenBoat School, among others. David and his wife, Amy and son, Benjamin (12) sail a 35’ Ericson out of their adopted city of Baltimore.

Martha “Marty” Lostrom is a member of EYC and co-owner (with husband Erik) of Scandia Marine Center. Marty loves all things related to being on the water. Marty and her husband actively race their CAL25 on the bay. Marty is also an active member in the marine trades community serving as Secretary of the Marine Trades Association of Maryland. Marty’s professional priority is to help promote Maryland’s marine trades and the many career opportunities in the industry.

Lee Maynard is a member of EYC and Vice President of Five Star Physician Services. Lee and his wife Jennifer are relatively new to Annapolis having moved here from Georgia. Since relocating, they have sponsored midshipmen, bought a sailboat and volunteered at the Lighthouse shelter. Lee has over 30 years of experience in the private sector focused mainly on operations. He has also served in the non-profit industry as Vice President of the Army Aviation Heritage Foundation. During the season you can catch Lee and his wife sailing the bay on their boat Swept Aweigh.

Laura Pinto is the STEM Teacher Specialist for Advanced Studies and Programs in Anne Arundel County Public Schools. She lives in Annapolis and is a longtime Chesapeake Bay sailor and boater. Laura is co-chair of the Education Committee and enjoys bringing the excitement of STEM and the on-the water applications of STEM to the students in the Annapolis community elementary schools.

Palma Wilson is a member of EYC and currently serves on the club's Environmental Committee and assists with the Race Committee's regatta parties. She worked for the National Park Service for over 34 years retiring as the Deputy Superintendent of Grand Canyon National Park. EYCF's commitment to inspire and educate kids (and their parents) about the stewardship of the Chesapeake Bay, in partnership with the marine trades, continues her professional and personal focus on education and resource conservation and protection.

Chris Chadwick (EYC Rear Commodore & EYCF Liaison) is a Commander in the U.S. Navy, has been on active duty for the last 25 years and currently serves as Navy Recruiting Command Washington Liaison. Chris served on the Board of Trustees for Seaside Park Yacht Club in NJ. He is a past Fleet Captain for Island Heights Yacht Club in NJ and the past President of the Toms River Seaport Society and Maritime Museum in Toms River, NJ. Chris is the past Fleet Captain of the Chesapeake Bay J80 class and past President of the North American J80 Class Association board.
